

ATA Podcast Terry Ryan

1:50 - Ryan introduces Terry.

4:14 - Terry talks about when she first learned about positive reinforcement training and some of the first animals she trained using positive reinforcement.

23:17 – Terry share what she would tell her younger self, given what she knows now about animal training.

24:48 – Terry shares that the best way to get in touch with her is through email or Facebook.

26:00 – Terry talks about her chicken training camps, including how they got started and what they are.

36:46 – Terry discusses the benefits of chicken training camps.

39:00 – Terry tells shares again that Facebook and email terry@legacycanine.com are the best places to find her right now.

40:21 – Terry shares her thoughts on how to best help human learners succeed.

44:45 – Terry discusses what she means by “lateral thinking” and how it can help us teach our human learners. She references Edward DeBono (the person who coined the term) as a good resource to learn more about lateral thinking.

53:06 – Terry shares about her book “Coaching People to Train Their Dogs”, available at www.dogwise.com/coaching-people-to-train-their-dogs and about the book she is writing now.

54:40 – Terry discusses why she thinks it is important to use games in dog training and talks about her book “Gamify Your Dog Training”. Available at <https://www.dogwise.com/gamify-your-dog-training-training-games-for-group-instruction/>

59:24 – Terry shares a story from her experience working with animals so far and an important lesson she learned along the way.

1:04 - Terry tells listeners what she would like to see in the next five to ten years in the animal training community.

1:07 - Ryan thanks Terry.

1:08 - Ryan directs people to www.animaltrainingacademy.com to find out more about ATA including membership